

A cereal box draw bridge is so much fun to make! You just need an empty cereal box, string, a straw and something to use to decorate the outside of the box. You could cover the box in paper and colour it with a marker or you may choose to turn your box inside out and paint it.

Cut down the two front sides of the cereal box, but leave the bottom edge attached. Hole punch two holes in the front flap and two holes on the back of the box.

Trim a straw and thread a piece of string through the straw. Put the string through the back two holes leaving the straw on the back side of the box.

Tie the string to the other two holes on the front of the drawbridge. Make sure it is long enough to lay flat when opened.

The straw on the back is the handle to pull up the drawbridge.
